

September 23, 1944

Bomb Installations at Debice

Citation:

"Bomb Installations at Debice", September 23, 1944, Wilson Center Digital Archive, Container 174, W. Averell Harriman Papers, Manuscript Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. <https://digitalarchive.wilsoncenter.org/document/220003>

Summary:

Clark Kerr thanks Stalin for cooperating with Anglo-American experts that recently inspected rocket installations in Debica, Poland.

Note that the document refers to the city of Debice, Poland, which is in Northwestern Poland, near the German border. This city is not known to have or been near any rocket installations and it is therefore assumed by the processor that Debica was the correct city due to its proximity to Blizna and that it was called Debice in error.

Original Language:

English

Contents:

Original Scan
Transcript - English

THE AMBASSADOR

TOP SECRET

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

☐ Retain class'n ☐ Change/classify to _____☐ With concurrence of _____Conversation. ☒ Declassify ☐ in part and excise as shown September 23, 1944

EO 12356 Sec. 1.2 (a)

ACDC/SR by gms 5 30 180

Present: The American Ambassador, Mr. Harriman
 Mr. Edward Page, Second Secretary of
 Embassy

The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald
 Clark Kerr
 Major A. H. Birse, Second Secretary of
 Embassy

Marshal I. V. Stalin
 Mr. V. M. Molotov, People's Commissar
 for Foreign Affairs
 Mr. Pavlov, Soviet interpreter

Subject: Bomb Installations at Debice.

The British Ambassador stated that he wished to thank Marshal Stalin for the cooperation extended by the Russian authorities to the Anglo-American experts who had gone to Debice, Poland, to inspect the rocket installations. The Marshal inquired whether the results of the visit had been satisfactory. The British Ambassador replied that the experts had been very much pleased with the results and that they would place at the disposal of the Soviet Government the information they had obtained if the Soviet Government so desired. They had worked like detectives and had found fragments here and there to create a skeleton of what had formerly existed. I remarked that the experts had said that the Red Army officers could not have been more helpful. They had seen everything desired, including Poles who had been employed at the experimental stations, and learned what type of weapon had been used there.

EP:nn

Copy to General Deane.

Re: Debice
 F-110

□ THE AMBASSADOR

TOP SECRET

Conversation. □□□□□□□ September 23, 1944.

Present: The American Ambassador, Mr. Harriman

□ Mr. Edward Page, Second Secretary of Embassy

□ The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr

□ Major A. H. Birse, Second Secretary of Embassy

□ Marshal I. V. Stalin

□ Mr. V. M. Molotov, People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs

□ Mr. Pavlov, Soviet interpreter

Subject: Bomb Installations at Debice.

□The British Ambassador stated that he wished to thank Marshal Stalin for the cooperation extended by the Russian authorities to the Anglo-American experts who had gone to Debice, Poland, to inspect the rocket installations. The Marshal inquired whether the results of the visit had been satisfactory. The British Ambassador replied that the experts had been very much pleased with the results and that they would place at the disposal of the Soviet Government the information they had obtained if the Soviet Government so desired. They had worked like detectives and had found fragments here and there to create a skeleton of what had formerly existed. I remarked that experts had said that the Red Army officers could not have been more helpful. They had seen everything desired, including Poles who had been employed at the experimental stations, and learned what type of weapon had been used there.

EP:nn

Copy to General Deane.