

January 30, 1964

Information Note from the Foreign Information Section of the "Securitate" with regard to encouragement from Radio Free Europe's broadcasts of "The tendency toward independence from USSR in Romania."

Citation:

"Information Note from the Foreign Information Section of the "Securitate" with regard to encouragement from Radio Free Europe's broadcasts of "The tendency toward independence from USSR in Romania."", January 30, 1964, Wilson Center Digital Archive, ACNSAS, fond SIE, file 16, p. 110. Published in Florian Banu and Liviu Tarau, "April 1964. Bucharest Spring. How did [they] adopt Romania's 'Declaration of Independence.'" (Enciclopedia Press: Bucharest, 2004), pp. 3-4.
<https://digitalarchive.wilsoncenter.org/document/112290>

Summary:

Description of memorandum from Radio Free Europe's (RFE's) New York headquarters to the Paris RFE bureau directing the Paris bureau to use its broadcasts to subtly encourage Romania to adopt foreign policies which would lead to greater independence from the USSR.

Original Language:

Romanian

Contents:

Translation - English

M.U. 0123/I-C.22-/11630 January 1964NOTE
From Paris, we send you this report numbered 118/E of 27 January [1964]:[Radio] Free Europe's (RFE) central office in New York recently sent a written order to the Paris RFE bureau with regard to the future direction of their broadcasts as it concerns our country. The document suggests that future broadcasts should aim to stimulate "Romania's tendency towards independence from the USSR."In order to accomplish the task, the Paris bureau is directed through the document to obtain data that show Romania's recent purchases of industrial equipment from the West. This data is to be used to argue that, lately, the People's Republic of Romania (PRR) is moving closer to the West, where industrial equipment is cheaper and of better quality.From [our] sources it becomes clear that the Paris RFE bureau has very little data on this issue. Furthermore, in a separate paragraph of the document, the Central office in New York directs [the Paris RFE Office] to refer to our country as Romania rather than PRR in its future broadcasts.ss. Major CaramanFor ConformityMajor Florian Plaiasu